250 Years of
London Yearly Meeting

IT has been decided by the Agenda Committee to devote the first evening of next Yearly Meeting to an historical survey of the work of London Y.M. during the two and a half centuries in which it has been held without a break (1668/9 to 1918).

For use on this occasion material is in preparation in the Library Department at Devonshire House, and the Librarian would be very glad to receive information bearing on this subject—especially to be informed of reports of Yearly Meeting, written by individual Friends.

As it is intended to print some record of the occasion, which will contain the papers read or referred to, information regarding pictures suitable for reproduction would be welcomed.
