
Profiles of Contributors to Articles, Review Article and Notes

ROXANNE BAMFORD

Roxanne Bamford is a Policy Lead on the Technology and Public Policy team at the Tony Blair Institute for Global Change. Her work focuses on equipping the world's leaders to understand better the revolution in technology, accessing its benefits and mitigating its risks. Roxanne previously worked on the Public Policy team at Google and has more than seven years of experience working at the intersection of technology, public policy and politics. She is a candidate on the Executive Master of Public Administration at the London School of Economics and holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and Philosophy from Trinity College Dublin.

Email: r.bamford@institute.global.

LESLEY-ANNE BARNES MACFARLANE

Dr Lesley-Anne Barnes Macfarlane lectures in Child and Family Law at Edinburgh Napier University. Her research interests lie in the fields of child and family law, private law and children's rights. Before joining the university, Lesley-Anne was a child and family solicitor, working in a specialist family law firm regularly representing children and adults in court. She has been accredited as a lawyer–mediator and her experience as a child welfare reporter and curator ad litem in complex family proceedings informs her ongoing research.

Email: l.macfarlane@napier.ac.uk.

PATRICK BIRKINSHAW

Patrick Birkinshaw is Emeritus Professor of Public Law at the University of Hull. He was Editor in Chief of the quarterly journal European Public Law between 1995 and 2018. He has authored numerous books including: Government and Information Rights (with Dr Mike Varney, Bloomsbury Professional 2019) and European Public Law – The Achievement and the Brexit Challenge (Wolters Kluwer 2020). He has worked as a specialist adviser to the Commons Public Administration Select Committee and frequently acted as a government adviser. He was a member of the transparency team for Nirex and the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority and was an ombudsman on information requests. He has worked on several national research councils. Email: p.birkinshaw@emeritus.hull.ac.uk.

CHO KIU CHIANG

Cho Kiu Chiang is a postgraduate researcher at the University of Hong Kong. He holds an LLB from the same University and an LLM from University College London. Email: ckchiang@connect.hku.hk.

JAMIE GRACE

Jamie Grace is a Senior Lecturer in Law in the Department of Law and Criminology at Sheffield Hallam University (SHU), holding this post since January 2014. Jamie has been course leader of both the MA and LLM in applied human rights courses in his department for four years and is an active researcher in the Helena Kennedy Centre for International Justice (SHU). Jamie was previously a Senior Lecturer in Law in the School of Law and Criminology at the University of Derby. Jamie is currently Vice Chair to the Data Analytics Ethics Committee established by the West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner and also serves on the West Midlands Police general force ethics committee. Jamie will hold a Visiting Fellowship at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies (University of London) in the summer of 2020, as a guest of the Centre for Information Law and Policy. Email: j.grace@shu.ac.uk.

AMY KELLAM

Amy Kellam is an Associate Research Fellow at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies. She holds a PhD from the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, and her early published research explored issues of law and diplomacy in relations between Britain, China and Tibet, examining the evolution of legal mechanisms governing religious and minority rights in China and placing these mechanisms within the context of the transition from colonialism to post-colonialism in international law. This early research developed into a wider interest in socio-legal issues in comparative perspective. Her recent research has focused upon access to justice for vulnerable groups. She is currently involved in a research project on the short-term impact—and long-term implications—of the COVID-19 pandemic on access to justice issues.

Email: amy.kellam@sas.ac.uk.

YSEULT MARIQUE

Yseult Marique is a Senior Lecturer at the University of Essex and a Research Fellow at the FÖV Speyer (Germany). She researches comparative public law in Europe, with a focus on Belgian, Dutch, English, French and German administration, with a special focus on the rule of law and public contracts. She holds a PhD in Law from the University of Cambridge and is the treasurer of the British Association of Comparative Law. Email: ymarique@essex.ac.uk.

VICTORIA McCLOUD

Dr Victoria McCloud (otherwise known as Master McCloud) is a judge in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court but also divides her time between judicial work and academic work at Oxford University Centre for Socio-Legal Studies where she presently is engaged in research on interference with political discourse on US Social Media and is an affiliate of the Swiss Re Programme for Civil Justice systems. She gave the judgments in Telecom Centre (UK) v Thomas Sanderson (Early Neutral Evaluation) (2020) and at first instance in Dring v Cape Intermediate Holdings (2017). Email: victoria.mccloud@law.ox.ac.uk.

PETER MUCHLINSKI

Peter Muchlinski is Emeritus Professor of International Commercial Law at the School of Law, the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. He is the author of Multinational Enterprises and the Law (Oxford University Press, 2nd edn 2007, 3rd edition forthcoming). He specializes in the regulation of multinational enterprises, international investment law and business and human rights. Email: pm29@soas.ac.uk.

MICHAEL REYNOLDS

Michael Reynolds is a Senior Research Fellow at the London School of Economics completing an historical study of international dispute resolution between sovereign states. He is the Module Director of International Dispute Resolution and Arbitration at BPP University College. He was formerly a Senior Law Lecturer teaching jurisprudence, professional legal skills and tort as well as being the PhD House Tutor. He is an experienced solicitor having worked in Westminster and the City, in local government and private practice. He is a chartered arbitrator and has recently presided over an international tribunal. He is the author of several professional practice books and was formerly a member of the Editorial Board of Arbitration and the Commissioning Editor of Construction and Engineering Law. Prior to returning to the LSE he was an Academic Visitor at the Centre for Socio-Legal Studies, University of Oxford undertaking research on dispute resolution processes in England and the European Union. He is a regular contributor to The Company Lawyer.

Email: m.p.reynolds@lse.ac.uk.

PATRICIA NG

Patricia Ng currently works as an Access to Legal Services Adviser at the Mary Ward Legal Centre in London. She holds a PhD in law from SOAS, London University. Her research interests include dispute processing and access to justice, particularly from law in context and socio-legal perspectives. She has mainly worked for the not-for-profit sector, in two main areas—housing and homelessness and violence against women and girls. She has contributed in a range of voluntary sector roles including as housing adviser and caseworker, campaigner, and through policy and research work in relation to gendered violence and its many impacts on black and minoritized women and girls. Email: patricia.ng@btinternet.com.

MUHAMMAD SAEED:

Muhammad Saeed is a former judge in the district judiciary of Pakistan, and was recently awarded his doctorate by Newcastle University (Newcastle Law School). His research work is mainly focused on securing better performance by local courts in Pakistan.

Email: m.saeed2@newcastle.ac.uk.

RUSSELL WILCOX

Russell Wilcox is a practising barrister at 1 Chancery Lane. He holds a PhD in law from the University of London, and he is a visiting lecturer at Strathmore Law School, Kenya. Email: rwilcox@1chancerylane.com.