Intellectual property rights

Photocopying
You are permitted to photocopy single articles for your personal use in accordance with the national copyright laws. If you wish to photocopy for any other reason, including multiple copies, systematic copying, copying for the use of advertising or for the purposes of promotion, you are required to obtain permission of the publisher and pay a fee. Special rates are available for educational establishments.

Derivative works
Subscribers are permitted to reproduce the table of contents and prepare lists of articles for circulation within the organization. If you wish to distribute outside the organization, permission is required from the publisher.

Storage and use in digital format
If you wish to store or use any of the material in this review in digital format, including any article or part of an article, you are required to obtain the permission of the publisher.

With the exceptions noted above, no part of this review may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, digital, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without obtaining the prior permission of the publisher in writing.

Contact details for permissions
Permission may be sought for any of the above activities from Pario Communications Limited, 19a Church Street, Langford, BIGGLESWADE, Bedfordshire, SG18 9QT, United Kingdom; or by e-mail to information@pariocommunications.co.uk.

Guide for authors

Submissions
The Review seeks and encourages original submissions from lawyers, academics, scientists and technicians; students in relation to postgraduate degree work and versions of dissertations, where the student has passed the relevant course and the dissertation has been marked. The IT industry, certification authorities, registration authorities and suppliers of software and hardware are also encouraged to engage in the debate by submitting articles and items of news.

The length of an article can vary. There is no fixed length. The aim is to publish articles of good quality that add to the debate and knowledge of readers, discuss recent developments and offer practical advice. All articles will be in English, and contributors are requested to write using shorter, rather than longer sentences, because the audience is international.

Submissions should be sent as an attachment to an e-mail addressed to submissions@pariocommunications.co.uk. All papers are peer reviewed.

Style
Submissions should be in plain word format with no linking of any description in the document, preferably Times New Roman font, size 12, with an interval of 1.5 between each line. Please indicate the level of headings by placing the level in brackets after each heading, as follows: Main heading (A or 1), First sub-heading (B or 2), Second sub-heading (C or 3).

The author should include a brief summary about the content of the paper (20 – 500 words) together with between 4 – 6 index words.

Where references are included, please use footnotes. Do not use endnotes. Try to keep notes to a minimum. Please do not cross reference any reference in a footnote. If you refer to the same reference in subsequent footnotes, repeat the original reference. Please follow the Modern Humanities Research Association Style Guide for citations, (2008) (http://www.mhra.org.uk/Publications/Books/StyleGuide/index.html) as follows:

- References for books [11.2.2, example (ii) is preferred, pp 51-54]
- Chapters or articles in books [11.2.3, example (ii) is preferred, pp 54-55]
- Articles in journals [11.2.4, example (ii) is preferred, pp 56]
- Articles in newspapers and magazines [11.2.5, 5-58]
- On-line publications [11.2.10, 1, pp 60-62]

Please refrain from using any Latin tags. Only use Latin where it is not possible to use any other word. This is because Latin is not used in some jurisdictions, and the Latin used in one legal system is often different from the Latin used in another legal system.

Authors are requested not to use culturally bound clichés, literary and cultural metaphors, colloquial language, and language that is misplaced, especially language used by the military or in relation to war, such as ‘battle’, ‘combat’, ‘fight’, ‘deploy’: it is offensive to those who are killed and injured in battle to use the language of war and killing when writing about topics that have no link with military activities.

Copyright, licence and acknowledgement

The contact details of the author should be included in the submission (name, qualifications, name of firm, company or university, full postal address, web address), plus a brief biography demonstrating expertise and experience of up to but no more than 50 words in length.

The author retains copyright and grants the publishers of the Review a licence to publish the article in the Review and to create and maintain digital copies on the internet at the discretion of the publisher and via third parties in subscription databases. The author warrants that they are the owner of all rights of copyright in the article. One copy of the relevant review will be sent to each author free of charge. Where the author subsequently publishes the article, the author is requested to acknowledge the article first appeared in the Review, in whatever format it is subsequently published.

The usual rights of editorial control exist with the publisher.