The editors welcome Dr Juhana Riekkinen, who has agreed to join the editorial board, and Jessica

Shurson, who has volunteered to be an editorial assistant to the joint editors.

Dr Juhana Riekkinen

Juhana recently completed his LL.D. degree at the Faculty of Law, University of Lapland, Finland. His dissertation, published in 2019, focuses on electronic evidence in criminal procedure. Juhana also holds LL.M. (2014) and LL.B. (2012) degrees, and he has completed training on the bench at the District Court of Lapland and the Court of Appeal of Rovaniemi (2016–2017). He currently works as a postdoctoral researcher at the Faculty of Law, University of Lapland, where he teaches numerous courses relating to legal informatics and law of evidence. He is also the author of several scholarly articles and an active guest lecturer and speaker. In addition to electronic evidence, his particular research and teaching interests include admissibility and exclusion of evidence, theories of evidence and legal decision-making, legal psychology, and data protection.

Jessica Shurson

Jessica Shurson is a PhD Candidate at Queen Mary University of London, researching law enforcement access to digital evidence across borders. Prior to her research in the UK, Jessica served as a prosecutor for the State of Tennessee, specializing in child abuse and sex crimes prosecution. She holds an LLM with Distinction in Human Rights Law from Queen Mary University of London, a JD cum laude from the University of Memphis, and a BA in Political Science and Journalism from the University of Minnesota.
